When used with the corresponding chart, the scoring method we present here will strongly approximate the score you would receive if you were sitting for the actual AP U.S. History exam.

SCORING THE MULTIPLE-CHOICE

SECTION For the multiple-choice section, use this formula to calculate your raw score: Number right - (number wrong \times 1/4) = raw score (round to the nearest whole number)

Short section, use this formula to calculate your raw score: DBQ + Essay #1 + Essay #2 + = raw score (round to the nearest whole number) You may want to give your essays three different grades, such as a 13, 10, and an 8, and then calculate your score three ways: as if you did well, average, and poorly. This will give you a safe estimate of how you will do on the actual exam. Try to be objective about grading your own essays. If possible, have a friend, teacher, or parent grade them for you. Make sure your essays follow all of the AP requirements before you assess the score. The statistical formulations used by the AP Program preclude our REA practice-test scoring system from precisely replicating the procedures and determinations of the AP Program. Bear in mind that the cut-off point between each of the five AP grades typically shifts slightly from year to year. This occurs both because one year's exam cannot be expected to be exactly as difficult as another year's and because no two test-taker groups can be expected to be equally strong.

THE COMPOSITE SCORE To obtain your composite score, use this method:

$1.13 \times \text{multiple choice raw score} = \text{weighted multiple-choice score (do not round)}$

$2.73 \times \text{free response raw score} = \text{weighted free response score (do not round)}$

Now, add the two weighted sections together and round to the nearest whole number. The result is your total composite score. See the range within which your score falls on this table to approximate your final grade:

AP Grade	5	4	3	2
Composite Score Range	114-180	91-113	74-90	49-73
